

F1 Alaskan Yukon Moose Hunt

Thomas Vaden and Sheila Vaden of Solo Creek Guide Services LLC., is a family owned business. They have graciously donated an Alaska moose hunt to be taken in 2018 or 2019. Their family has been hunting and guiding in this area since 1960. It is an exclusive guide area, meaning no other guides can bring clients in. You will spend 10 days in the Wrangell St. Elias National Preserve which borders the Wrangell St. Elias National Park, in the White River Valley and surrounding foothills and mountains. Solo Creek only books 4 to 5 hunters each year so they can manage the game numbers for years to come. Their goal is give you the best hunting experience possible while putting you on as much game as possible. Days begin in the early morning. While you are being served breakfast, the camp help and assistant guides are saddling horses and spotting game. Often, moose are spotted in the foot hills just above camp. If not, hop on horseback and ride further, hunting throughout the day using a spot and stalk method. If it's a warm fall, bulls bed down early and don't leave their beds until late evening. This often means waiting until near dark for the bulls to move. If bulls aren't found in one area, it's off to another; this occasionally requires setting up camp away from the lodge and hunting from that location. Hunts are conducted using horses with the final stalk being done on foot. Not include in the donation are, Alaska hunting license and moose tag, taxidermy, shipping of meat or trophy, tips and gratuities and travel to and from Solo Creek. It is a very remote location with no roads or ATV access. Thus, the cost of getting into and out of Solo Creek can be significant (approx. $1500-$2000). You will travel to Fairbanks Alaska, then 40 Mile Air, will transport you from Fairbanks Alaska to Tok and then on to Solo Creek. Sheila will provide you all the contact information and assist to you in booking flights. LVSCI thanks Thomas & Sheila for their very generous donation.
